Bear Your Burden, 2024, Acrylic on canvas, 30 x 40 inches, $1100

Mexican women shoulder the responsibility of supporting their community and families. They nourish the stomachs of their families and the souls of their communities. They are selfless and obedient to their husbands and God. But they are frequently taken advantage of and are expected to create a peaceful world and empower men by giving them hope. They bear the burden of their culture.

ABOUT THE ARTIST

My career provided the opportunity to visit many corners of our planet, different cultures and ways of life, and my journey in Art is an effort to relive and celebrate those experiences.

I'm all about depicting the human condition.
